

CMG TRAINING · MAFUNZO YA VIKUNDI

A digital tool to implement CMG capacity building

From an author's desk to a village meeting and back

The training cycle

BEFORE THE JOURNEY

Lessons built, groups registered

- 📖 Write · content author
- ✓ Review, publish · a second author
- 🌐 Translate · translator
- 🏠 Register groups · district officer

What we learn comes back: quiz scores to authors, progress to planners.

A plan is pencil. A schedule is ink.

PENCIL

The plan

Does the work fit, and what are the trips?

- Six weeks, one area or district
- Trainer 1, Trainer 2: Trainer n
- Counts trainer-days against visits
- Redraw it as often as you like

INK

The schedule

Who goes where, on which day?

- A named trainer on a fixed date
- Certified, posted there, available
- The trainer sees it, prints the sheet, is told of changes
- To change it: reschedule or cancel, with a reason

OPTIONAL · A STICKY NOTE

A draft session, when schedules are tentative

Use it when the trainer is not decided yet, or when a rule refuses the booking. Nobody is told, and its modules are held: the scheduler will not book them again.

The planner proposes. The scheduler decides. Every rule is checked at the moment of scheduling.

TAMISEMI working with the BDS partner

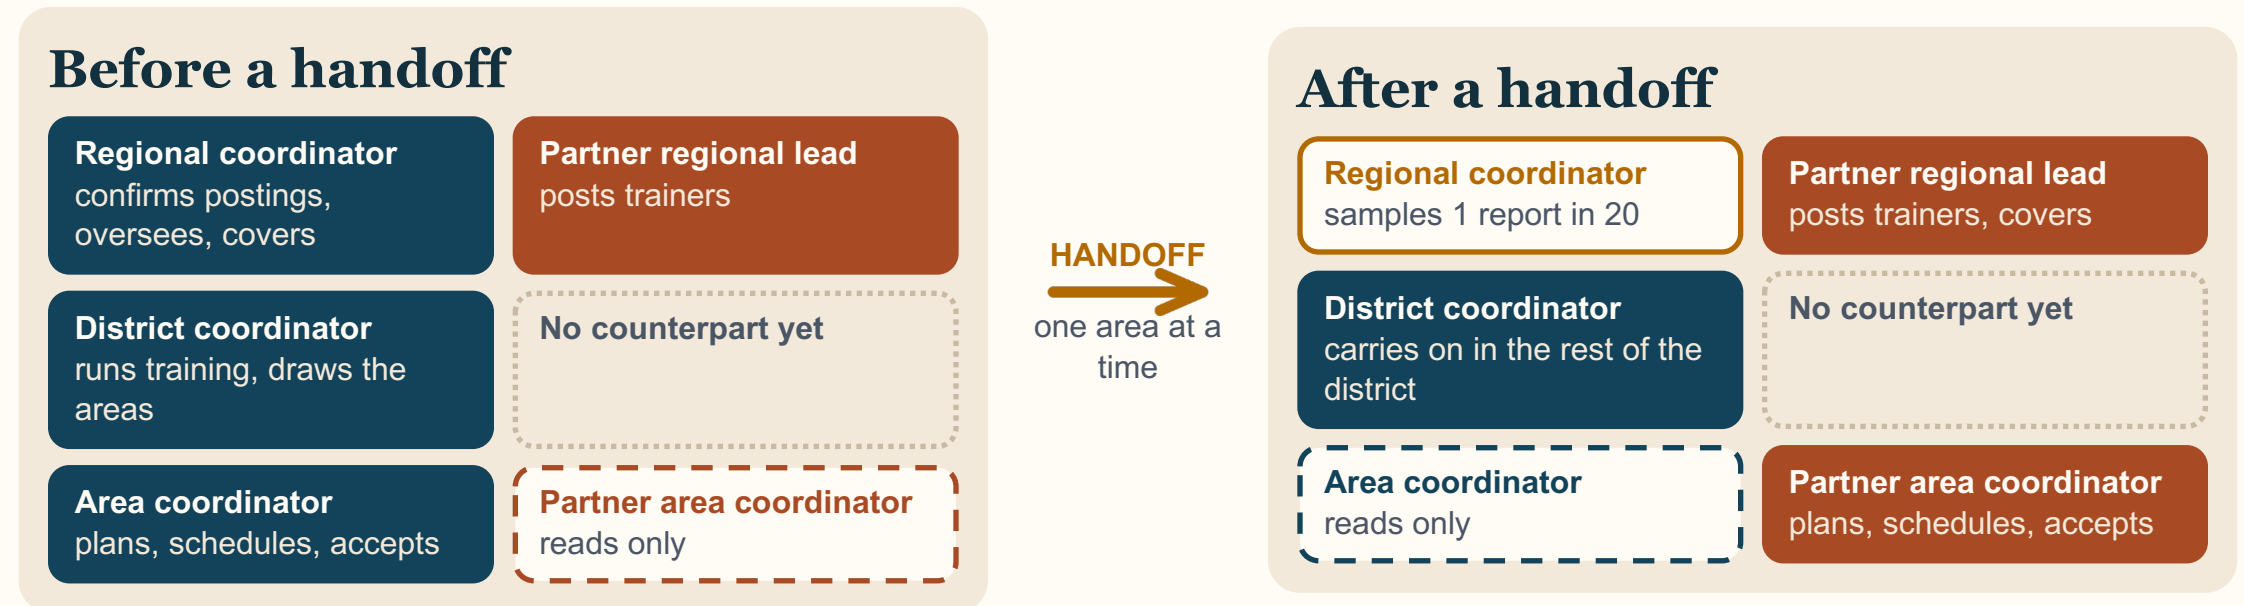

NATIONAL	Administrator, TAMISEMI Owns the platform	standards down, certified trainers up	Partner manager Certifies the trainers
REGION	Regional coordinator Oversees the districts, covers	postings confirmed; 1 report in 20 sampled	Partner regional lead Posts trainers where needed
DISTRICT	The coordinator With the district officer, who registers the groups	only registered groups can be trained	No counterpart yet Partner mirrors region and area
AREA	Area coordinator + stand-in Plans, schedules, accepts	handed across, one area at a time	Partner area coordinator Takes over after a handoff
VILLAGE	Trainer From the BDS partner; on paper	session delivered; two members sign	The group Chair and secretary co-sign

AREA An area is made up, not on any map. It is a named subset of wards inside one district, which the coordinator draws and can redraw so that one person has a workable patch. Records stay by region, district and ward.

Not in the building: content authors and translators, who make what is taught, and an evaluator, who reads everything and changes nothing.

Key roles: TAMISEMI vs BDS partner, before and after the operations handover

Who acts and who watches swaps when an area is handed over. Trainers always belong to the BDS partner; the register of groups always stays with TAMISEMI's district officers.

The people, one at a time

Eight people help deliver a lesson from a training content author's desk to a village meeting and back. The roles are listed here.
